Startling Information in Regard to Chinese Riots.

ESCAPED FROM SIBERIA.

A Stowaway on the Empress of India, Who Had Suffered Six Years in Siberia—Escaped Convicts' Desperation.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 13.—The steamship Empress of India, which left Yokohama at 3:30 p. m., Oct. 1, reached Victoria at 4:30 this morning and after a brief stop proceeded to this port. When the vessel had been but a short time at sea an interesting stowaway was unearthed. He was Demetrius Kobopitski and was an escaped Siberian convict. He had been sentenced to sixteen years exile in Siberia, but after six years of almost unendurable hardships he had succeeded in making his escape into China. He made his way to the coast and managed to secrete himself on the Empress of India. The passengers took much compassion upon the unfortunate man and with the aid of the officers made the passage to Canada as comfortable as possible for him.

On Sept. 21 while proceeding to Shanghai a terrific typhoon struck the vessel, but no damage was done.

Japanese exchanges received by the steamer state the following interesting events:

On Sept. 14, the bark Archer of New Chwang, was totally wrecked during a typhoon at the entrance of Nagasaki harbor. All on board perished. The crew of the vessel was composed of Chinese, but she was officered by Europeans.

At Vladivostock about September 14, sixteen Russian convicts working on a new railroad attempted to escape. Two were shot down, but the others succeeded in escaping. The subsequent doings of these men showed to what desperation they had been driven by their treatment during exile. At a farm house which they reached soon after their escape, they killed the three inmates so as to obtain clothing. A French officer was killed for the same reason, and a Russian bandmaster was also killed and his body stripped. At last accounts none of the convicts had been recaptured.

A correspondent of the Japan Daily Mail writing under date of Shanghai, Sept. 19, says: Details which have been received regarding the Ichang riot throw a more serious aspect upon that outbreak than was at first anticipated. It was thought the affair would turn out to be the work of an ignorant mob, excited into violence by the emissaries of Kolao Hui as at other places on the Yang Tse, but we now know that the attack was deliberately planned and carried out with great expedition by a few soldiers who were under the command of a mandarin, whose special duty was to protect foreigners at Ichang. In this case it is certain that the officials to whom the foreigners had to look for protection were themselves among the rioters, and either would not, or pretended inability to suppress the attack. The ignorant lower classes had nothing whatever to do with the outbreak. Indeed, mission premises inside the city were open all day and patients from among the poor were receiving relief at the dispensary at the very time that the soldiers were burning foreign houses and insulting inoffensive French sisters, at the settlement just outside the city walls. No excuse or provocations will serve the purpose of the Ichang officials in this case. An attempt was made, it is true, to protect the Roman Catholic sisters, but they were entrusted to the care of brutal soldiers who threw them down the river embankment and then did their best to murder them. Had it not been for the personal bravery of a German priest some of the sisters would have undoubtedly been killed. Although every unofficial foreign building was burned, the British consulate and custom house were not damaged. The British consul was unable to assist those attacked. Fortunately the steamer Pao Hua was in port and every foreign resident took refuge aboard her.

The attack was not only deliberately planned, but all details were carried out with the utmost celerity. It was pretended that a child had been stolen by the convent people, but the story was false. The water in the rivers was so low that the war ships Swift and Aspic were unable to reach Ichang. The merchantmen Elo carried up a detachment of blue jackets who will protect foreign property.

An Imminent War.

PANAMA, Oct. 5.—Advices received here from San Jose de Costa Rica report that war is likely to break out in the near future between Salvador and Guatemala on the one hand and Nicaragua and Honduras on the other. In this regard the Nicaraguan papers speak of troops having been placed by Dr. Sacava on the Honduras frontier, under command of a personal enemy of General Bogran. It is also said that Guatemala has sent troops to the Salvadorian frontier. The official relations between Guatemala and Salvador have been very unsatisfactory during the last twelve months. The two countries find it difficult to maintain peace, although the two governments are on friendly terms with each other, owing to the despotic relations to their people.

From Guatemala also comes rumors of war. The Bien Publico of Quezaltenango says that the relations between Honduras and Nicaragua threaten to be broken at any moment. Dr. Sacasa's sending of the troops to the Honduras frontier under command of General Garcia compelled General Bogran to send 3,000 men also to the frontier, so that the two armies are now face to face. It is rumored that preparations for war are actively going on in Salvador and that General Ezeta has organized the artillery and sent 5,000 men to the frontier.

National Prison Congress.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 13.—At this morning's session of the National Prison congress the report of the committee on police was read by Colonel Felton, of Chicago. The report is entitled, "Some of the Impediments to Efficient Police Management," and says: "The first and greatest impediment to the efficient police management is the constant [illegible] of the interests of politicians, office holders and political parties. They control [illegible] for pecuniary ends."

[illegible] report the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, [illegible] Nicholson, of Michigan; vice president, J. H. Patterson of New Jersey, James Massie of Ontario, R. H. Dawson of Alabama, E. S. Wright of Pennsylvania; secretary, R. W. McCloughey, of Illinois; treasurer, John C. Whiton, of Massachusetts. [illegible] unanimously elected.

[illegible] the business of the congress was resumed, Captain Pope, commandant [illegible] military prison at Leavenworth, Kan., read an instructive paper on "Crimes and Criminals of the American Army."

A Mercantile Sensation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—John Hoey, president of the Adams Express company, was yesterday [illegible] of his position as president [illegible] by the unanimous vote of the full board of managers. Mr. Hoey was charged with malfeasance in office. Clapp Spooner, vice-president of the company, presented his resignation after the board voted for the expulsion of the president, and the resignation was accepted. The salary was $30,000 per annum.

The trouble which overtook Mr. Hoey yesterday was foreshadowed last spring in a suit brought by Henry C. Sherbourne against him, Clapp Spooner and Edward Taft as co-defendants. The action was brought to recover a sum approximating $840,000. Mr. Hoey then admitted under oath that he had been a party to a transaction by which a syndicate of three men sold property which had cost them about $170,000 to William B. Dinsmore, then the president of the Adams Express company. For this $170,000 worth they received from the Adams Express company the sum of $870,000. For this property Mr. Hoey did not pay a cent, but he accepted one quarter of the profit they made, which profit amounted to $725,000. His quarter was near $180,000.

Mr. Sanford was nominated for president by W. P. Dinsmore and was elected by a majority of six votes. Frederick Lovejoy was unanimously elected vice president.

Mr. Sanford has been connected with the company for the last forty years, and was at one time its general superintendent. He is an old resident of Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. Lovejoy was for a long time superintendent of the Pennsylvania division of the Adams Express company. In 1886 he resigned to accept the presidency of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad.

For Ireland's Good.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Justin McCarthy, M. P., stated to-day in an interview, that he did not intend to issue a counter-manifesto, that he trusted to the verdict of the nation, and particularly to the good sense of the Irish people. All that he and his colleagues cared to remember now was Parnell's noble endeavor to promote the interests of Ireland.

Thomas Power O'Connor's life of Charles Stewart Parnell has just appeared. It bears but few traces of hurried preparation, yet it is a book of 224 pages and contains a great deal in a small compass. All previous biographies of Mr. Parnell accord to Avondale the honor of his place of birth. Mr. O'Connor says he heard Mr. Parnell state that this is incorrect. He was born at Brighton. Among his earliest influences were the stories he heard in his childhood from an old servant of the family narrating the horrible cruelties the Irish suffered during the rebellion. These made Parnell the man he became. From his mother were also derived traditions thoroughly hostile to the existing relations of England and Ireland. Though intensely Irish in sentiment, Mr. O'Connor always regarded Mr. Parnell in physique and character—in character above all—as an American. While he was studying at Cambridge, he was more devoted to athletic sports than he was to his studies. It is doubtful if he ever read a poem or a novel throughout his life, not even the poems of Thomas Moore. He first read Irish history while a prisoner at Kilmainham. In his early manhood, he was of unstained moral character. He became engaged to a lady of Rhode Island who jilted him for another. Referring to his first appearance in parliament, Mr. O'Connor says that the Irish members then led a life of isolated struggle. The awful loneliness of Parnell must always be borne in mind, when one considers the terrible event that subsequently darkened and blasted his life and brought his untimely end.

A Fast Mile.

STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 13.—A strong west wind blew in the faces of the horses on the second half of the new kite shaped track and it was not considered a good day for record breaking. A number of horsemen said that the day was two and a half seconds slow and predicted that Sunol, who was to try to equal Maud S.' record of 2:08¾, could not do any better than tie her own record time, 2:10½. A large crowd was present. Marvin nodded for the word after scoring twice and Sunol took the middle of the track, going at a very fast gait. She made the quarter in 31½ seconds, and the half in 1:03½. The three quarters was reached in 1:36½. The runner joined her at this point and she made a grand finish in 2:10 flat in the face of a strong wind and lowering her own record half a second. Many prominent horsemen said it was the greatest mile ever trotted under the circumstances. The stallion Palo Alto trotted against his record of 2:12¾, but owing to the strong wind he failed. The mile was made in 2:12¾.

Twenty Lives Lost.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The World says that probably twenty lives were lost off Rockaway Beach by the storm of Sunday and Sunday night. Among them were George White, Alfred Kane, Mark Thursby and Alden Little, of New York, who started out Sunday afternoon in two boats to fish for shark. The storm came up shortly after they started and the craft were capsized and all on board lost. The crew of three men of a two-masted coal schooner was also lost in North channel. J. Moore managed to cling to the wreckage of the schooner until rescued. An oysterman named Julius Quay, who was assisting the life saving men in rescuing Moore, was knocked overboard by a falling mast and drowned. Sunday afternoon Charles P. Foss let out a [illegible] and [illegible] small boats at Holland's station, up the bay. The [illegible] carried a fishing party of five men, and the small boats eleven men. They went up the bay towards the inlet. Nothing has been seen of them since. It is thought the storm carried them out to sea, as they were too far down to be washed upon the meadow lands.

Rio Grande Southern Opening.

DENVER, Oct. 13.—A special Rio Grande Southern train left the union depot this evening at 8 o'clock for Rico, to celebrate the opening of the Rio Grande Southern railroad into that mining camp. About fifty citizens of Denver were in the party, which was in charge of the Hon. Otto Mears, president and general manager. Very complete arrangements have been made to make the trip an interesting and enjoyable one, and an equally entertaining time is anticipated upon the arrival of the special train at Rico.

A Freight Train Wrecked.

DENVER, Oct. 13.—A special from Albuquerque, N. M., to The Republican says: A freight wreck occurred on the Atlantic and Pacific, near Navajo Springs, last night. At a slight curve a cow was noticed lying on the track, but not soon enough for the engineer to stop the train, although he whistled "down brakes." The engine and thirteen cars of merchandise for California were ditched. The engineer, McAulay, escaped with slight bruises and cuts, but Fireman Ed Clark was caught and hurt internally. A "shoofly" track was immediately set around the wreck and trains are not delayed.

Montreal's Pet Plague.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—It is greatly feared that during the coming winter Montreal will suffer a repetition of the small-pox epidemic of 1885. Already forty cases have been reported from various parts of the province. It is felt that only extreme care can save the city.

A Storm at Sea.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., Oct. 13.—Since daylight yesterday morning a furious northeast storm has been raging with unabated force. Considerable damage has been done to sailing crafts at anchor in the bay. Several thousand marsh hens have been killed during the high tides during the last two days. The Camden and Atlantic railroad has run a good part of their trains over the West Jersey road to-day, as the Camden and Atlantic tracks, about a mile and a half this side of Atlantic City, have been under water during the high tide. Exposed property has suffered considerably around the bay front.

Mrs. Parnell's Health.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The health of Mrs. Parnell continues to cause the greatest anxiety to her friends and relatives. Even her attending physician admits that her condition is such as to necessitate the greatest care.

After Parnell's Seat.

DUBLIN, Oct. 13.—It is now generally believed that Mr. John Howard Parnell will contest for the seat in parliament, (Cork City), left vacant by the death of Charles Stewart Parnell.

BARRELS OF GOLD AT OURAY.

Tascott is Dead. A Homesick Nurse Who Set Fire to a House for a Change. A Young Lady Sleepwalker on a Pullman.

OURAY, Colo., Oct. 13. A body of telluric ore was struck yesterday in the Bright Diamond mine, specimens which assay as high as $152,000 to the ton. Chunks of free gold ore are being taken out as large as a barrel.

The Bright Diamond is making a remarkable record. It is now keeping the Bright Diamond and the Badger mills steadily employed on the lower grades, besides shipping a large amount of high grade to the smelters.

Tascott Reported Dead.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Sophia Elizabeth Ordway, widow of the late Albert E. Ordway, a clothing cutter from Chicago who committed suicide here in March last, was taken to the Bay View insane asylum to-day. The woman, who is of unsound mind, makes many queer statements. She claims that her husband was the companion of William Tascott, the man who is supposed to have murdered Millionaire Snell. She also says that her husband one night brought home a mask and told her that he was going to have some of old Snell's money or kill him. He went away and did not return until the next morning. He came back without any shoes and his handkerchief was clotted with blood. He said that he had loaned his shoes to Tascott, who had been shot. The woman also declares that Tascott is dead. She says she knows that he was strangled to death and his body made away with by his pals. In this connection she frequently mentioned the names of Funkhouser, Marsden and Reynolds. Subsequently to the murder of Snell her husband became exceedingly nervous and induced her to leave Chicago. Mrs. Weots, the mother of Mrs. Ordway, confirms her daughter's story in parts and says the memory of the past dreadful events has unbalanced her mind.

Mrs. Gamp Gets Homesick.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Elizabeth Darby, a trained nurse, aged 21 years, is under arrest at Media, Pa., charged with setting fire to the residence of Mrs. Catharine S. Latham, of Rosemont, Pa. Miss Darby, who is connected with one of the Philadelphia hospitals, was on Friday last sent to Rosemont to nurse an invalid sister of Mrs. Latham. On Saturday afternoon and night several attempts were made to set the house on fire. In each case the fire was extinguished before any material damage had been done. Suspicion rested on Miss Darby. To-day she confessed her guilt. She said she could not bear separation from a very dear friend who was also a nurse in Philadelphia and that she hoped by destroying Mrs. Latham's house she would secure her return to Philadelphia. The lives of half a dozen people were endangered by her attempted crime.

A Somnambulist in a Pullman.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 13. At 4 o'clock this morning, while passenger train No. 3, on the Central, east-bound was passing West Batavia, a young lady was seen to leave her berth in a sleeper and walk to the rear platform. She did not return and alarm was raised. Failing to find her the train was stopped and backed toward Batavia, the crew searching both sides of the track. The search was unsuccessful, but the operator at Corfu station, who [illegible] continue the search, found the girl lying near the track just outside of West Batavia. Her head was cut open and she was internally injured. She was brought to this city where she died. The police state that the girl's name was Mary McLaughlin, and that she was en route to Bay City, Mich. A note in her pocket stated that she was going to [illegible] at West Branch, Mich. A card with the name Ida G. V[illegible] was also found in her pocket. She was well dressed and wore some valuable rings. The supposition is that she was a somnambulist and walked off the train while asleep.

Silver in Wisconsin.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—A special to The Tribune from West Superior, Wis., says: There was an exodus of old time miners this morning to the copper range, seven miles from this city, and the ravines of the range will be pounded full of holes inside of a week by prospectors, who have been fired by discoveries made by W. C. Tonkin. A few weeks ago a prospector brought in a piece of ore sixty per cent. pure, and Tonkin immediately went prospecting. He returned Monday and brought specimens of silver ore, which he found within twenty miles of the city, the [illegible] of which proved to be exceedingly high, running 122½ ounces of silver to the ton. It is what is known as silicious ore, free from lead or iron and composed largely of silica.

A Baby Sent to Prison.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., Oct. 13.—At Sandy Hill to-day Mrs. Alice Harvey, of this city, was sent to the Albany penitentiary for three years on her plea of guilty of assault in the first degree on Pat Garrigan, whom she accused of drowning her husband in Lake Champlain about three weeks ago. A feature of this case is that Mrs. Harvey has an infant under one year of age. The court directed the sheriff to take the child with the mother to the penitentiary. That raises an interesting question. Can the keeper of a prison keep within its walls a person not under sentence, even if that person is the infant of a convict mother born in freedom and innocent of any crime?

Melbourne or Dyrenfurth?

ST. PAUL, Oct. 13.—The weather of the past few weeks has undone much of the good that was done by the fine weather early in the season in North Dakota, and the farmers of the northwest will suffer losses aggregating millions. The damage can as yet only be estimated, but that the loss will be very great there seems to be no doubt. Rain has been general and abundant, and it is this which has caused the greatest loss. There is a shortage of threshing outfits and the weather has prevented more than half the time. At Jamestown, N. D., rain and snow fell last night. It was snowing to-day and last week there was but one full day's wheat threshing. Reports are received of grain sprouting in several stacks. At Devil's Lake, N. D., a heavy rain fell to-day which will stop threshing several days. No grain has been stacked, owing to the scarcity of laborers.

Professor Virchow's Birthday.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—A most impressive scene was witnessed to-day in a handsomely decorated salon on the Kaiserhof. There seated on a raised dais and surrounded by his friends, Prof. Rudolph Virchow, the famous pathologist, received the congratulations of thousands [illegible] of his seventieth birthday. There were present nearly all the prominent German men of science together with a majority of the prominent statesmen and physicians, as well as a goodly number of scientists from foreign lands. At noon a birthday book, compiled by a number of Virchow's former pupils, was placed on sale and at the same time one of the finest streets of the city was re-christened Virchow Street. The professor's birthday was made the occasion for a demonstration, in a mild and civil [illegible] upon the part of the [illegible] party, now known as the Independents, of which section of the German Liberals Virchow has always been a recognized parliamentary leader.

During the course of the day Herr Richter at the head of a deputation of the Freisinnige party, presented the professor with a number of gifts. At about the same time Mayor Forckenbeck presented the distinguished scientist with the deeds conferring upon him the freedom of the city of Berlin. A gold memorial medallion was also presented to the professor by a committee of his medical and political colleagues and bronze copies of it were given to every member of his family and were sent to every scientific institution in Germany with which Virchow has at any time been connected.

Severe Storm in England.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Owing to a severe storm which is prevailing in England, the telegraph wires in many sections are prostrated and communication with the coast and between the larger cities is a matter of difficulty and coupled with considerable delay.

The wind storm which visited England this morning and which caused serious interruption to telegraphic communication soon developed into a furious gale and has resulted in an interruption of almost complete cessation of telegraphing throughout the southwest portions of England and the southern part of Ireland and Wales. From the lighthouse at the Scilly islands, from the Lizard Point, from Kinsale Head, near Cork, come reports of a great and heavy gale at sea and much apprehension is felt for the safety of ships near the coast.

The great storm to-day flooded the lowlands of northern Wales, causing great damage. The wind was peculiarly savage at and about Tamworth.

The Downs are full of vessels which anchored there for shelter. At Hastings a heavy sea swept over the promenade and the damage there and at other watering places will be enormous.

During the height of the storm a Norwegian bark went ashore at Chesil Back, off the coast of Dorsetshire. There was an exciting scene at the rescue of her crew, which was successfully accomplished by means of the rocket system. A French brig was stranded near Falmouth, where the force of the wind shattered her to pieces. A Norwegian vessel loaded with coal became a total wreck off Kearney, county Down, Ireland. Several collisions occurred in the Thames and many vessels were driven ashore.

Pennsylvania's Inquest.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—The committee appointed by the state senate to prepare rules for the government of that body during the present extra session, held a protracted meeting to-day. A controversy arose as to whether the proposed hearing, involving the investigation of the charges made by the governor against State-treasurer Boyer and Auditor-general McCamant, should be held before the governor of the [illegible]. The Republican senators construed the constitution to give the senate jurisdiction, while the Democratic senators claim that the governor is authorized to take charge of the hearing. The committee will meet again to-morrow morning.

Boston Won Fairly.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The board of directors of the New York Baseball club met again to-day to take action on the report of the executive committee in regard to the charges recently made that the New York club purposely lost games to the Boston club in their last series of games together. After carefully examining the report and discussing the matter in all its details, the board adopted a resolution to the effect that it accepted the report of the executive committee and its unanimous opinion was that there was no deliberate intention on the part of the management to in any wise weaken the team for the purpose of losing the games with Boston, it being set down that the team was in a great measure handicapped by the illness and disability of several of its most reliable players; but that in view of these disabilities, it was unwise in the management to have arranged the extra games.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Trading in stocks this morning was on a limited scale while prices were unsettled. In the early dealings the market was weak and prices recorded fractional declines. At 10:30 there was renewed buying and prices not only recovered the decline, but advanced fractionally by 11 o'clock. In the hour to noon the bears made another raid on the list, singling out Louisville and Nashville. They hammered the stock named freely, and at noon the advance in some of the list disappeared and prices at that hour were irregular and slightly changed. The principal trading of the morning was in Atchison, Chicago Gas, St. Paul, Burlington, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific and Nickel Plate.

The market was dull during the last half of the day, and there was long intervals when not a single transaction was recorded. A singular fact in connection with the trade was the entire suspension of dealing in silver bullion. To-day there was not an ounce dealt in on the board. Notwithstanding the extreme dullness, prices were firmly held throughout the afternoon, and in many cases values were bid up fractionally. The closing prices were as a rule slightly higher than the closing of yesterday, while in the case of Richmond and West Point Terminal preferred, an advance of 2 per cent. was recorded. Total sales [illegible],315 shares.

Transmissouri Association.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—The Transmissouri Passenger association met in regular session here to-day, Chairman Smith presiding. The committee on a new form of ticket designed to prevent scalping, which committee was appointed at the last regular meeting, submitted its report, recommending the adoption of the skeleton coupon ticket. The consideration of this report occupied the entire day and adjournment was finally taken without any decision being reached.

A Guarantee of Peace.

ROME, Oct. 13.—King Humbert gave half an hour's audience to M. De Giers, the Russian minister, at the Villa Monza. Premier Rudini was present. Afterward Rudini and Giers had a long consultation. The [illegible] regards [illegible] a guarantee that there is no danger of a conflict between the triple alliance and Russia and France.

A Democratic Victory.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—The city election to-day resulted in the election of the entire Democratic ticket by majorities now estimated at from 1500 to 3000. Sullivan for mayor, present incumbent, runs 1000 ahead of his ticket. The campaign was the most exciting and bitter in the history of municipal politics.

Conservative Brag.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Mr. Jos. Chamberlain, M. P., in his speech at Cambridge, described the programme of the Liberals as outlined at Newcastle as absurd. The house of lords, he said, would have nothing to fear, if after Mr. Gladstone had presented his home rule plan, the house of lords should insist upon the opinion of the country being taken on the subject.

THE FLEMING MURDERERS.

There is very little more to tell regarding the Fleming murders than was given in THE GAZETTE yesterday morning. The three men under arrest are confined in separate cells at the county jail and no one was permitted to visit them. No further arrests have been made but the officers are at work securing the evidence which will corroborate Russell's story. Owing to the absence of Mr. Osborne and the illness of Mr. Garrison the preliminary examination cannot be held until Saturday. It will occur before Justice Walker at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The information leading to the arrest came to Marshal Bowers of Manitou, through Mr. Gutchell, of Table Rock, a brother-in-law of the officer.

THE GAZETTE had a large sale of papers yesterday morning owing to its complete account of the capture and confession. There was great interest in the story of the murder but it did not create the least excitement. The people of the Divide are very much surprised at the turn affairs have taken with the young men, who have not been considered particularly hard characters.

Sudden Death.

Edward Stewart, a young colored man employed as a waiter at the Antlers hotel, died very suddenly at the hotel about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, probably from heart trouble. The facts in the case are as follows: Stewart was about 18 years of age and had been employed for some time in the pantries, but lately Head-waiter Morris has been using him as waiter at the help's table. Stewart was apparently feeling quite well yesterday morning and engaged in his usual work. About 9 o'clock he took an order for a breakfast and went to the serving room for it. He did not return for some time and a search was instituted, resulting in finding him on the floor of the servants' cloak room dead. After giving his order Stewart had evidently been taken suddenly ill and seated himself on a box in the cloak room and then fell.

Physicians were summoned, who made an examination but could not determine the cause of death. There were no signs of any disease affecting the structure of the heart, although it is possible the heart was affected in some way. Stewart had not been in the habit of drinking, but on Saturday night went on a spree with some friends. It is said that he drank a quart of cheap whisky, and it is probable that his death resulted from that, although he had apparently recovered from the effects of the drunk.

Stewart has a brother working at the hotel, and also a brother-in-law. The body was taken to Hallett & Baker's undertaking rooms and viewed by Coroner Marlow, who decided an inquest unnecessary. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon.

Meeting of the Scientific Society.

The meeting of the Colorado College Scientific society last evening was held in Palmer hall. The meeting was a very interesting one, and two carefully prepared papers were read.

Professor Strieby presided over the meeting, and after calling it to order Prof. Augustus T. Murray read a paper on the conditional moods in the German language which had been prepared by Dr. Thilmer.

The paper entered into very elaborate details in regard to the origin of the conditional form in that language, and cited many opinions in regard to the question. Professor Murray thoroughly discussed the paper as he read it and at the close was the principal partaker in the discussion.

The second paper was that of Prof. [illegible] Cajori on the study of mathematics in the United States. The professor divided the history of the study into three periods. The first was that of colonial times when the study was in a very weak condition, and was pursued at any length by only the most advanced students. The second period was that following the Declaration of Independence by the colonies. The English books were the principal mathematical influence. The third period was that in which came the [illegible] of French mathematics. In the last period only was there any original work done in mathematics in this country, and before that time "the professors themselves never felt the glow of a new idea."

Religious Services at Bellevue Sanitarium.

An unusually interesting service was held yesterday afternoon at Bellevue sanitarium. It was conducted by the Evangelists now laboring in the Christian church, Rev. T. A. Boyer and Professor Brown. In the parlor, reception room and hall, between twenty and thirty persons listened with rapt attention to the tender, striking sentences of Mr. Boyer as he spoke on the theme, "What Christ is to us," while the sweet notes of Professor Brown's voice in two beautiful hymns, reached still farther, to those who were unable to leave their rooms. The service was fruitful of good, and it is the intention to have such meetings occur as frequently as possible during the coming month.

Register Immediately.

The matter of registration for the coming election is one of great importance and a subject that is attracting the greatest interest at present. Twenty-three hundred names have already been registered for this city. To register it is necessary to appear before the county clerk in person and present your name. Voters registered after next Saturday cannot vote at the coming election, as the registration must close fifteen days before election. To give workingmen who cannot come during the day time and opportunity, County-clerk Howbert has decided to keep his office open each evening this week from 7 to 9 o'clock. Let every voter see that he is properly registered.

Fenians Lament Parnell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The governing directory of the Fenian Brotherhood at their monthly meeting held in this city, adopted resolutions regarding the death of Mr. Parnell that,

Whereas, although this staunch and steadfast old brotherhood still adheres to its fundamental principles, that it is by physical force alone Ireland can achieve her complete independence, still our Irish sympathies and affections, as well as our admiration, go out freely to all men of our race who labor earnestly, honestly, and according to their best belief in the field of the regeneration of our native land.

The Fenian brotherhood deeply and sincerely deplores the untimely death of Charles Stewart Parnell, whose transcendent abilities and soul-inspired sincerity in Ireland's cause electrified the world and won for him the admiration of all liberty-loving men: the greatest of all Irishmen who sought redress for their mother land through the channels of parliamentary effort, he took parliament by the throat and compelled it to recognize the Irish question as above all others and rendered legislation for the British empire impossible until his demands were complied with.

Newspaper Building Burned.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Fire starting at 9:30 to-night damaged The American building, inflicting a loss of about $10,000; fully covered by insurance. The fire was probably incendiary. The composing rooms, telegraph rooms, offices of the United Press and office of the Associated Press were all gutted. The telegraph operators escaped, but lost their typewriters. The editorial rooms were damaged only by water and the press room very slightly. The paper will appear as usual to-morrow.

The fire caused a loss of about $10,000, fully covered by insurance. The fire was probably incendiary. The compositors were caught in the flames but their injuries are not serious. The names of the printers injured are M. W. Brooks and W. W. Phelps. J. K. Muir's head was also badly burned.

Another Outlaw in Canada.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—The Louisiana State Lottery company has established a branch office in Montreal and will use the Canadian mails for purposes denied them by the United States postal authorities. The agent has issued a circular which has been sent throughout Canada. The first paragraph of the circular reads: "Recent changes in the United States postal regulations have rendered it preferable to more closely connect the interests of our Canadian patrons by establishing a branch office in Canada." On inquiry at the post office it was ascertained that the officials were powerless to stop this until the government passed a similar law to that now in vogue in the states.

[illegible] Cricket.

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—The cricket match between the Gentlemen of England and the Boston Athletic team was resumed this morning. The Englishmen continued their second innings at the bat and by careful playing they rolled up a score of 201 before they were retired. This brought their score for the two innings up to 237. The home eleven then took their turn in defending the wickets, but made even a poorer showing than yesterday and were all out for 25 runs, the Englishmen winning, therefore by 212 runs.

Alderman Rouse, as chairman of the street and ditch committee, has done good honest and faithful work. It is not his fault that matters regarding the railroad crossings are so bungled, and if the council had deferred more to his judgment things would be in much better shape than they now are.

West Colorado Springs people have a reasonable right to expect a reasonable share in the expenditure of the city funds, and it may be that they have not received this. But when the only money at hand was needed for a work for which funds had been expressly raised and whose completion was to the interest not of the people of any one section, but of all sections and of every visiting tourist, namely the Tejon street under-crossing, it was a poor time to assert their claims.

THE TEJON STREET CROSSING.

The city council in refusing Monday night to proceed immediately with the construction of the Tejon street under crossing, was guilty of a serious breach of faith and neglect of duty. They broke faith with the railroad company because it was relying upon representations made by agents of the city that the railroad was induced to expend a considerable sum in constructing the present bridge and excavating the passage way; it broke faith with the county because a road has been opened and a bridge constructed across the Fountain which are now valueless and will remain so until direct access to them is afforded; it broke faith with the citizens because it was well understood by all at the time the project was inaugurated that a necessity existed for it and that the work should be pushed to completion as soon as possible.

What respect can corporations have for future representations of a city which obtains an undercrossing under plea of necessity, and then refuses to make use of it? How many more roads will the county construct to end in an insurmountable barrier? What do citizens think of a council which in so important a matter not only neglects their wishes clearly expressed, but even treats them with contempt?

It is idle paltering to plead that there is no money in the treasury. Money has been appropriated, and money has been raised for this express purpose, and the members of the present council were under contract to expend this money for this purpose. It does not lessen the blame to say that the contract has been violated and the funds have been misappropriated.

The pressing question is not, "Why has the work not been done?" The answer is too evident. It is not, "Why can the work not be done?"

The question is, "How can the work be done at once?"

Where there is a will there is a way. A great many things have been done in this city for which there was apparently no money available. One way was suggested by City attorney McMorris, who has the reputation of being exceedingly conservative in such matters, but the council ignored the suggestion. It is certainly as allowable to take money to do this work which needs to be done and ought to be done, as to divert the money which was intended for Tejon street to some other place. If money can be taken from Tejon and taken from Huerfano for Bijou, surely the small sum necessary for Tejon can be found.

This need for the undercrossing at Tejon street has been thoroughly discussed. Its necessity was sufficiently proved and recognized last winter, and it is not seemly at this time for any one or few in the council or out of it to upset careful plans and delay a pressing need with the remark that "it is only a real estate scheme." It is not the people who own real estate in the south end who want the crossing. It is the ones who want to get south of town without positive and serious danger.

The city is shut off on the southern side, except by an undercrossing which is used by the rapid transit, and which is a constant danger to life and limb. The evils which were feared have been realized. It is true that no one has been killed, but there have been many serious accidents. A list of these, amounting in many instances to serious bodily injury, and in other cases to carriages wrecked, valuable horses ruined, or merely to fright and nervous shock, would astound the public. And the list would be much longer if it were not that many persons who would be most likely to use the drives which lead among other places to the Broadmoor Casino and the beautiful and unique park of the city at Cheyenne canon, have not done so for months because they could not without serious and constant danger. Any one who travels on the road between the summit of the Nevada avenue hill and Ivywild does so at a serious risk. Even if the horse be unfrightable, there is no telling at what moment some other frantic animal may dash into the rear or side of the carriage, and some of the most serious accidents have happened in just this way.

If it were a mere matter of convenience, the council would find it hard to produce a reasonable excuse for their delay and unwarrantable action in this matter. But it is something more. There is no other safe way, and there is daily danger that life may be sacrificed.

Among the pledges made by Mayor Sprague in his excellent inaugural address was, "That work on the viaducts, for which bonds have been voted, and the Tejon street undercrossing be advanced as fast as the interests of public travel and the availability of appropriations and other funds will warrant." This has not been done.

There is no good reason why this pledge should not be redeemed. The aldermen who are responsible for this are guilty of breach of faith, neglect of duty and misuse of funds, and are held in contempt of society by the bar of public opinion so long as matters are left as they now are.

There Are More Than Fifty-seven Thousand Members in New York State.

Grand Secretary Terwilliger, of New York state, reports a membership of about 57,000, and 605 lodges in good standing up to Aug 10.

The present grand representative of New York, John W. Stebbins, has been unanimously re-elected to the sovereign grand lodge for another term of two years.

The receipts of the grand lodge of Ohio for the last fiscal year were $21,478.20; disbursements, $24,491.60, or $3,013.40 more than receipts. The increased expenditures are accounted for by the payment for returned D. of R. ritual of the old edition and the payment of the expenses of the D. D. G. M.'s, which heretofore, has been paid in the year following. Yet Ohio's treasury is sound and has plenty of money in it.

The wife of a scarlet degree member, who was only fifteen years of age, was admitted as a member in a Rebekah lodge of Dayton, O., in 1889. It has been decided that she was legally admitted, because the laws governing the Rebekah lodges do not specify the age of the wife of a scarlet degree member.

The Odd Fellow, of Melbourne, Australia, says that the recent session of the grand lodge cost the order about three shillings sixpence per minute. A few of the representatives cost the grand lodge one pound each in getting ready to speak.

Great Falls (N. H.) Odd Fellows are discussing a project to build a block 100 by 70 feet, with stores in the first story, a cozy opera house in the second story, a hall for the order in the third story, with banquet rooms, etc., in the fourth.

The Odd Fellows of Gosport, Ind., have suffered a severe loss, their building being destroyed by fire. Loss, $30,000; no insurance.

The grand lodge of Texas recently decided to sell the Odd Fellows' Orphans' home, as there is no present demand for it.

The Odd Fellows' college at Gallatin, Tenn., has opened with nearly 200 students.

Pennsylvania has just granted charter No. 1,001.

MASONIC.

Membership of the General Grand Council of the United States Chiefs.

The general grand council of the United States has 10,000 members under its jurisdiction. Pennsylvania is not a member of the general grand council. Comp. Orestes A. B. Senter, the M. P. general grand master, is a native of Boston, but a resident of Columbus, O. He was made a Mason in Columbus lodge, No. 30, in 1865, and knighted in Mount Vernon commandery, Ohio, in 1866.

One of the best known Masons in St. Louis is the 300 pounds avoirdupois veteran amalgamated treasurer John Glenny. He has been in office upward of twenty-five years, and is never absent from any of the bodies with which he is directly connected.

The grand lodge of Canada will celebrate the centenary of Freemasonry in Canada in 1892. The grand lodge held its thirty-sixth annual communication in Toronto in July. There were more than 700 members present. M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson was re-elected grand master.

The general grand council of Royal and Select Masters of the United States will hold its next triennial in Topeka, Kan., July 1, 1894.

Newark, O., offers $20,000 for the permanent location of the new Masonic home of that state at that place.

The grand lodge of Dakota has disapproved the decision of its grand master excluding an applicant who had lost the sight of one eye.

In 1889 there were in the United States 651,023 Master Masons, 157,898 Royal Arch Masons and 84,923 Knights Templar.

PERRY'S SAINTS IN WAR.

CAREER OF THE FORTY-EIGHTH NEW YORK REGIMENT.

They Were Christian Volunteers, but Fought Like Tigers, and Won a High Place Among Crack Union Regiments. The Deadly Breach at Wagner.

[Copyright, 1891, by American Press Association. Book rights reserved.]

JUST to what extent the happenings of the civil war as looked backward to previous American military affairs as curiosity exhibit, or however figured out in print, more widely, no doubt, than is generally supposed. The unique history of the Forty-eighth New York is a case in point. After the terrible massacres of Texan soldiers by the Mexicans at the Alamo and at Goliad in 1836 the officers of Gen. Houston's Texas army, so the story goes, made oath to shoot on sight the Mexican leader, Santa Anna, who was judged responsible for the atrocities. True to this oath, one of the officers, James H. Perry, a volunteer from the north, at the battle of San Jacinto attacked and killed a Mexican general whom he believed to be Santa Anna. After the fight Santa Anna turned up as a prisoner in Houston's camp and Perry learned that he had killed a very estimable and gallant man through his hasty mistake. He left the field and returned north and shortly entered the ministry in the Methodist church, impelled by conscientious scruples.

When the civil war broke out Perry was preaching to a Brooklyn congregation. Having been educated at West Point, he arose in his seat in the general conference, which happened to be in session, and said: "I was educated by the government; it now needs my services. I shall resign my ministry and take up my sword."

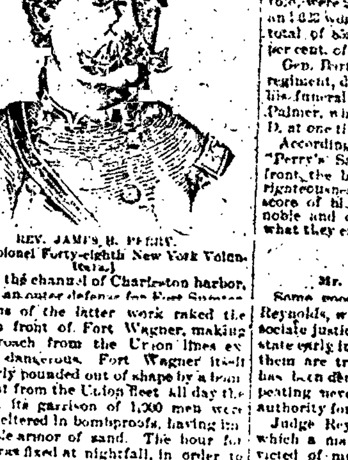

Perry's name was thereafter associated with that of W. B. Barton, a Brooklyn recruiting officer, and in a few weeks ten companies, raised in Brooklyn and the Hudson river counties and in New Jersey, were formed into a regiment as the Forty-eighth New York volunteers. Barton was the son of a minister and became lieutenant colonel. Under leadership so orthodox Christian parents gladly sent their sons to war, and it needs no wild flight of thought to see how natural it was in the days when "Railsplitter" and "Honest Old Abe" were common synonyms for the president, that a regiment with such a reputation should be called "Perry's Saints" to the exclusion of their adopted title, "Continental Guards."

The members were not at all abashed by their nickname; rather they gloried in it. On the way to the front the regiment halted at Annapolis and a pastor of the town invited Col. Perry to occupy his pulpit one evening. "Oh," said the colonel with a smile, "you can call on Maj. Beard or Capt. Knowles or Sergt. Levine or some of the enlisted men just as well."

The Forty-eighth was assigned to the expedition to the south Atlantic coast in the fall of 1861 and served in the Department of the South until the spring of 1864. The war was not brought to an end in the field where it expended its best efforts, nevertheless opportunity was had there to win a place in the list of forty-five Union regiments that lost over 200 killed in battle, and its place is the seventeenth from the top of the roll. It was among the forces that invested Fort Pulaski, Ga., in April, 1862, and soon after the fall of that fortress went into garrison there and remained one year. During this time the regiment was brought to a high degree of discipline by its soldierly commander and the officers whom he had inspired with his military spirit. Col. Perry was stricken with apoplexy toward the end of June, 1862, and suddenly expired. Lieut. Col. Barton succeeded him.

The first real fighting of the regiment was on Morris island, July, 1863. It took part, in the assault on the outworks of Fort Wagner, July 10, and on the 18th was in the first line of the column of assault on the main work that carried one bastion after terrible slaughter. This column was Strong's brigade of five regiments. Strong and 1 colonel were mortally wounded, 1 colonel was killed outright, and 2 other severely wounded, Barton, of the Forty eighth, being one of the latter.

The assault was peculiarly desperate and bloody. Fort Wagner was located on the beach of the channel of Charleston harbor, and was an outer defense for Fort Sumter. The guns of the latter work raked the beach in front of Fort Wagner, making the approach from the Union lines extremely dangerous. Fort Wagner itself was nearly pounded out of shape by a bombardment from the Union fleet all day the 18th, but its garrison of 1,300 men were safely sheltered in bombproofs, having impenetrable armor of sand. The hour for assault was fixed at nightfall, in order to escape the fire that would be poured on the column in daytime from Sumter and numerous island shore batteries that had a range on the island.

[First Colonel Forty-eighth New York Volunteers.]

After Strong's brigade had formed for the attack some precious time was lost in passing to the front the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts (colored), that had been brought up from a distance to lead the charge. The colored men made a gallant fight, losing their commander, Col. R. G. Shaw, but fell back repulsed. This was at 7:45 p. m. Twenty minutes later Strong's brigade went forward, the Sixth Connecticut and the Forty-eighth New York in front. The thunder of the guns of the fleet was suddenly stilled to avoid hitting the assailants, but the heavens grew black with clouds, and a storm arose in the skies that made the scene a strange and weird one. For a moment there was an awful hush. The brave fellows picked their way in darkness over the sand hills toward the dark and misshapen mass in front.

The moment the Union fleet checked its fire the Confederates knew what was coming and issued from their caves to man the parapets. The Confederate commander, Gen. Taliaferro, describing the attack as he saw it, says that the assailants were met by withering volleys of direct, enfilading and cross fire. The irregular outline of the fort making it impossible for them to reform at any point in numbers without crossing the lines of raking fire. "It was terrible," says the general, "but with unsurpassed gallantry the Federal soldiers breasted the storm and rushed forward to the glacis. The Confederates ... [illegible] single shot, drove the enemy back, captured their guns, their magazines, and at last stood triumphant upon the Confederate parapets and the strongest bastion of the work was taken."

Following upon this success came a most lamentable occurrence. Nearly all the survivors of Strong's brigade were in the conquered bastion or sheltered under the walls outside. The wounded went back to the rear with messages to the division leader asking for aid to hold what had been gained. The brigade of Col. H. S. Putnam was ordered to the front, but in the confusion and darkness, not knowing friend from foe, actually assaulted the very point held by Strong's remaining men.

Dr. Palmer, of that party of his comrades in the bastion were shot by Putnam's men and that Putnam himself was killed by a Union bullet on the parapet of Wagner. His account continues: "The writer estimates that as many as 700 or 800 men succeeded in forcing their way into that bastion, that 400 or 500 fell there; that 100 or 200 succeeded in escaping back to the Union lines after they became convinced of the folly of attempting to hold it; and it is known that 140 men, who persisted in holding what they had taken at such terrible cost, were, after three or four hours of desperate fighting, overpowered and taken prisoners. But from shortly after 8 o'clock until 12 midnight, they succeeded in defending the fortification they had taken despite repeated assaults of the enemy." Gen. Taliaferro writes as follows of the Union defense of the conquered bastion: "The party which had gained access could not escape; it was certain death to attempt to pass the line of concentrated fire which swept the face of the work and they did not attempt it, but they would not surrender, and in despair kept up constant fire upon the main body of the fort." The Confederates called for volunteers to dislodge the assailants, and the crack company of Capt. W. H. Ryan, of the Charleston battalion, responded among others. Gen. Taliaferro says: "Ryan's company was selected, and the gallant Irishman at the head of his company dashed at the reckless and insane men who seemed bent on immolation. The tables had now singularly turned; the assailants had become the assailed and they held a fort within a fort. Ryan rushed at them, but he fell, killed outright, with several of his men, and the rest recoiled."

Dr. Palmer's story goes on at this point: "The ground within that salient was piled with dead and dying; the wounded cried for help; our numbers had been greatly reduced by the fire, and the retirement, one at a time, of those who thought the attempt to hold on was folly. There still remained 140 men, mainly of the Sixth Connecticut and Forty-eighth New York, although there was hardly a regiment that had participated in the assault some of whose men did not join that stalwart company who determined to defend the bastion to the last. * * * For more than three hours that defense of the fort within the fort was kept up. * * * But at midnight the Confederates, by suddenly rushing in upon them from front and flanks and rear, did finally overwhelm them; then they surrendered."

The Forty-eighth lost 31 men and 3 officers killed outright and 18 men and 3 officers mortally wounded, a death roll of 85, the highest in any regiment in the assault. Its wounded numbered 7 officers and 166 men. The prisoners taken in the bastion were 73, the highest number belonging to a single regiment. The regiment went in with 500 men and 16 officers, and the losses were 222 men and 13 officers, 242 in all.

In February, 1864, the Forty-eighth accompanied the expedition led by Gen. Seymour into the interior of Florida, and on the 20th of that month fought in the desperate battle of Olustee, where it was in close contact with the enemy for five hours. During the last two hours of the fight it was without ammunition, yet maintained its ground under severe fire in order to cover the withdrawal of the defeated army.

In May, 1864, the regiment was transferred to Virginia and fought with heavy losses at Drewry's Bluff, on the James; in May, at Cold Harbor in June and at Petersburg in June and July. It charged into the breach at the "Crater" July 30, and afterward fought at Strawberry Plains, Fort Fisher and Wilmington.

The fighting period of the regiment covered nineteen months, and its losses, all told, were 237 killed and mortally wounded and 1,032 wounded and recovered, making a total of 859 killed and wounded, about 40 per cent. of its enrollment.

Gen. Barton, the second colonel of the regiment, died recently in New York, and his funeral sermon was preached by Dr. Palmer, who, as a boy private in Company D, at one time served as his orderly.

According to the camp stories told on "Perry's Saints" after they reached the front, the boys did not pose as models of righteousness, but they proved in a good score of bloody contests that they were noble and daring fighters, and that was what they enlisted for.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

Mr. Green Understood It.

Some good stories are told of Thomas Reynolds, who began his duties as an associate justice of the supreme court of this state early in September, 1891. Not all of them are true, and the one that follows has been denied, but it may be worth repeating nevertheless. Governor Ford is authority for it:

Judge Reynolds presided at a court in which a man named Green had been convicted of murder, and it became his unpleasant duty to pronounce sentence of death upon the culprit. He called the prisoner before him and said to him: "Mr. Green, the jury in its verdict says you are guilty of murder, and the law says you are to be hanged. Now, I want you and all your friends down on Indian creek to know that it is not I who condemns you, but it is the jury and the law. Mr. Green, the law allows you time for preparation, and so the court wants to know what time you would like to be hanged."

The prisoner replied that he was ready to die at any time the court might appoint. The judge then said: "Mr. Green, you must know that it is a very serious thing to be hanged. It can't happen to a man more than once in his life, and you had better take all the time you can get. The court will give you until this day four weeks. Mr. Clerk, look at the almanac and see if this day four weeks comes on Sunday."

The clerk looked and found that it came on a Thursday, and the court informed Mr. Green that he would be hanged on that day. The attorney general of the state, James Turney, wanted a more formal and impressive sentence passed, but the court replied: "Oh, Mr Turney, Mr Green understands the whole matter as well as if I had preached to him for a month. He knows he has got to be hanged this day four weeks. You understand it in that way, Mr Green, don't you?"

Mr Green said "Yes," and the court adjourned.—Chicago News.

Sock and Buskin.

In the early ages theater performers disguised their faces with masks of a rude pattern. Eschylus, the famous tragic poet, introduced masks, which were of various kinds, expressive of every character, condition and emotion. They were constructed with the greatest nicety and precision, and the dresses were also adapted to the characters assumed by the actors. What was known as the buskin was a hunting boot. Those worn by tragedians had soles three inches thick, composed of layers of cork, and were laced up in front as high as the calf.

Sandals were also worn, and many of these had thick cork soles. The colors of the foot coverings were various, red being the favorite hue for warriors and purple for other characters. Slaves wore a low shoe, bearing the name of sock, which was also the ordinary footwear of comedians. From this circumstance arose the well known phrase of "sock and buskin," so generally associated with the drama.—Detroit Free Press.

THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1891.

A mass meeting of the colored people is to be held at city hall to-night.

The new fire alarm boxes will be in place and ready for use next Friday.

Contractors have already commenced figuring on the plans for the new High School building.

Chas A. Campbell of near Falcon has made his final proof on his homestead claim in the county court.

About four million brick were made in this city during the past season. Of these W. H. Goshen made 2,000,000.

The Crowell Hose company decided at its meeting last evening to postpone the semi-annual election for two weeks.

A man giving the name of James Madison was fined $5 and costs in the police court yesterday for drunkenness.

Messrs. W. J. Wilcox and Duncan Chisholm of the Broadmoor company have returned from their hunting trip.

Miss Lou Moore returned yesterday from the east, having spent some time in St. Louis receiving instruction in painting.

The county commissioners were working on the tax levy yesterday and will probably make the levy for the year to-day.

There was a large attendance at Mrs. Whitbeck's dancing class last evening. The class for beginners meets from 8 to 9, and the older pupils come in later.

The plans for remodeling the Mansions house in Manitou are now awaiting the approval of Dr. Bell. When this is done the work will commence immediately.

A meeting of the Merchants and Clerks' association will be held at Grand Army hall at 8 o'clock this evening. All members are requested to be present.

Dr. Gregg and Rev. Mr. Ormes are about to issue a church paper in the interest of the Congregational churches of the city. It is to be called The Mayflower.

The owners of the various miniature racing yachts have subscribed for a silver cup emblematic of the championship of Prospect Lake. The first race will come off some time next week.

Mr. Will Welch, son of Mr. A. S. Welch of Cynthiana, Ky., a former well known resident of the city, has returned to Colorado Springs and will remain during the winter. Mr. Welch is a civil engineer.

Messrs. Geo. H. Parsons and Edgar T. Ensign, ex-forest commissioner, are making an inspection of the proposed national park in the White river country. They left Glenwood Springs recently accompanied by competent guides.

Two men giving the names of Fisher and Bob Beadley were creating a drunken disturbance in the Rio Grande yards yesterday afternoon. Officer Wilson came upon the scene, and with the assistance of Sewer superintendent Mangold the men were lodged in jail.

The carpenters are now at work on the roof of the new Lowell school on South Nevada avenue. It will be the prettiest ward school in the city when done, and Superintendent Pattison says that he can fill every one of its eight rooms full, as soon as they are ready.

The Huerfano viaduct is to be nothing like the Bijou viaduct. There will be only one truss span, where it crosses the tracks. All the rest will be simply an elevated platform on steel columns. A 5 per cent. grade will lead up to it and the effect will be almost the same as if the Huerfano street hill was moved west 600 feet. The horses will have just the same amount of climbing to do.

The GAZETTE was in error yesterday in stating that Judge Fields offered to let his client, Douglas, charged with assault, with intent to commit rape, plead guilty to assault. What Judge Fields said was that the case as established by the People was only an aggravated case of assault. His client does not admit being at the place at the time stated, but did not offer any defense.

For some time past there have been two lodges of the order of Woodmen of the World in this city, El Paso camp and Colorado Springs camp. It has been decided lately however that better work can be effected by a single camp and last evening the "marriage" of the two was consummated. The occasion was very interesting to the large number of Woodmen present. General Browning of Denver, chief clerk, was present and also six representatives from Pueblo. At the conclusion fruits were served as refreshments.

The subject of furnishing the printers' home is now agitating the board of trustees of that institution. It is thought that the plan of having memorial rooms will be adopted and that the printers' unions throughout the country will fit them up. Members of the Colorado Springs union are discussing the matter of being the first to start the project. The idea will be of course that if the union of a city furnishes a room any inmates of the home from that union shall have the choice of the room. The idea is likely to take with the ever generous printers.

A canvass of the city is now about to be made for the free reading room. Mr. Fred R. Hastings is authorized by the trustees to solicit contributions and and make collections. The reading room is having the most successful year of its history. A large number of strangers find the rooms a pleasant and profitable resort. But the benefits are not confined to strangers alone, for since last January the large number of 1076 families have regularly drawn books from the library. The purpose is to make the subscriptions come as proportionate from the citizens as possible, and while the library is free to all, a special request for support is made to those who have received the most benefit from the rooms.

The Baptists will claim a large share of public attention next week. The state ministers' conference begins its sessions next Monday evening at which the leading question now agitating the theological world will be discussed by leading pastors. The convention will follow immediately and will be attended by some of the most eminent eastern workers. Dr. R. S. McArthur of New York, who comes to Colorado to dedicate the Baptist church here on Oct. 25, Dr. H. C. Mabie, the home secretary of the Baptist Foreign Missionary society, a speaker of great power who has just returned from extended visits to Asiatic missions, Dr. S. D. Phelps, the famous author of some of the choicest hymns used by all denominations, and others will participate in the convention. The church dedication is expected to be a great occasion. Dr. McArthur is to give his famous lecture on "The Huguenots" on the 26th inst. The ladies' fair opens about Nov. 10, and evangelistic meetings begin the week after, Dr. J. S. Kennard of Chicago being expected to assist.

Bring on Your Drunkards.

The syndicate of Colorado Springs capitalists who are interested in establishing a Keeley Institute for the cure of drunkenness in this city are by no means idle in the matter. Mr. E. Barnett, proprietor of The Antlers, who is one of those interested, is now in Blair, Neb., where the Nebraska Institute is located, investigating the methods, profits, etc. there, and on his return, if he reports favorably, the deal for the Colorado [illegible] will [illegible] of [illegible] Denver and Boulder are both working for the institute, but Colorado Springs men hold absolute options and if the cure is a good thing to have, this city will have it. It will bring many people here, will add at least 200 to the population, will fill up the hotels and will add to the fame of the place as a health resort.

R. S. MacArthur, D. D.

The career of Rev. R. S. MacArthur, D. D., pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of New York city, who comes to our city next week, has been one of rare ministerial success. Scotch by origin, he inherited the preaching bent and received the most thorough training for his calling. He is now over 50 years of age, in the very prime of his power. He has been over twenty years in charge of his present flock, having had no other pastorate. From a church of about 100 members his constituency has risen to nearly 2000. No Baptist minister in the United States has greater prominence and influence. Of magnificent physique, rich, sonorous voice, the master of an ornate and eloquent diction, and eminent in elocutionary expression, he carries his audience by storm, producing a profound impression. He is to preach the sermons at the Baptist church on dedication Sunday, Oct. 25, and lectures on Monday, Oct. 26. Subject: "The Huguenots."

Sol Smith Russell.

Sol Smith Russell is a firm believer in easy, natural methods, and his first aim always is to establish friendly relations between himself and his auditors. Within five minutes after his entrance on the stage the audience seem to feel that they are in his confidence. They never see him do anything in a stagy way, and never hear him speak a line in a stilted fashion, and never see him offend against naturalness and refinement in art. He presents clean plays, and his comedy is of the kind that may, here and there, have a tear in it. Russell looks like a clergyman with his smoothly-shaven, thoughtful face. But he probably does as much good as most ministers, since he brings smiles to grave, stern faces, and sends people away with all their kindlier impulses quickened, and a love for their fellow-men awakened in their hearts.

Sol Smith Russell was born in New Brunswick, Mo., and is now 41 years old. He began singing on the stage at 12, was a drummer boy in the army in 1863, and appeared regularly at 15, singing between acts. He is a great student in every line, and a member of the Episcopal church. Off the stage Mr. Russell is a genial, dignified gentleman who cannot fail to create a favorable impression upon whomsoever he comes in contact. He is a man of keen perceptions, limitless wit, and possesses brains enough for a governor, or a senator, or even a president. Mr. Russell will appear at the opera house Saturday evening in his latest and greatest success, "Peaceful Valley."

Protecting Mountain Sheep.

The county commissioners are having some notices made calling attention to the law regarding the killing of mountain sheep and wild game of like nature. Special attention is called to the provision regarding mountain sheep, for which there is a fine of $200 and imprisonment for not less than thirty days. The county commissioners are very anxious to protect a little flock of the sheep which have been located on Pike's Peak for some time. At first there were but two or three, but last year the flock had visibly increased. They could be seen from the cars on the Pike's Peak railroad frequently the past summer, and were an object of great interest to the tourist. Lately some persons have been shooting the animals, and it must be stopped. Persons caught killing them will find it an expensive job hereafter.

NOTICE.

I shall be a candidate for Superintendent of Schools of El Paso county, at the approaching election, subject to the decision of the voters at the polls. My reasons for taking this step will be published later on.
